Remodeling & Home Improvement Checklist

Before you make major improvements inside your home, such as adding or changing windows, doors or skylights, consider the exterior impact of those changes. An extra windows here or there may provide the necessary light you want inside a room, but what effect will that window have on the exterior appearance of your new home? Make sure to consult with your professional at Prudential Biros Real Estate.

One source of funds for remodeling projects is your home mortgage. If the home you want to buy is missing something you want, ask if that project can be included in the mortgage and paid for over the life of the mortgage. If so, write "mortgage" in the source of funds column for that project. Home improvement loans, savings, inheritance, tax returns and increased income represent some additional source of funds.
